MOOD:  embarrassed

MUSIC: Don Henley - I Will Not Go Quietly

If the proper consistency for bread dough is rather like a woman's unaugmented breast, well, it occurred to me last night that braiding the dough for a braided loaf is rather like plaiting unerect penises*.

Which collectively leads me to a series of unfortunate metaphors about baking and masturbation.

Yeah, you think my head is a scary place. I have to live in it.

*this metaphor not to 1:1 scale.

Yes, baking with your hands is more fun. And the results have a better texture, and taste better.

...does that qualify as a blues metaphor?

Come on baby, braid my loaf!

It's the blues metaphor to end all blues metaphors. Or at the very least, right up there with lemons, sugarbowl, and sausage gravy in the top ten.

There's a lapel button there, somewhere.

That just makes the term "bread porn" all the more valid, I guess.

I have a sudden urge to bake.

As far as I can remember, that really wasn't the first thing that came to mind, last time I made challah. Then again it wasn't great challah, so maybe a more amusing metaphor would have helped.

Of course, not using a recipe designed by some heretic who believed challah was supposed to be sweet would probably have helped more.

You have a challah recipe?

Yes, but unless you actually like your challah on the sweet side I wouldn't recommend it. (OTOH it was otherwise OK so I guess you could just use less or no sugar.) By "sweet", I don't mean like cake, I just mean sweeter than IMO a general purpose bread should be.

If you still want it I'll try to remember to look for it Monday, which is when I finally get home (after 2 months!). However, jetlag will be a factor in my memory so feel free to prompt me again.

Eek, two months!

No worries, then. I will hunt a less-sweet one, and enjoy the being home. :)

I know at least one guy who is going to seriously wish you had never mentioned that where I could find it...

Um.

Don't post pictures?

Heh. Don't worry, dear. This is one of those torment him with the suggestion ideas, not something I'd try.

I appreciate that your uncanny perception of spatial relationships required you to mention that wasn't to scale.

...I just thought of half a dozen horrible jokes. You may thank me for not making them by bringing me pudding.

Pudding...and given your sense of humor, also a pound of CHEESE.

Though given your sense of humor, you might have plenty. g

I seem to have an unaugmented breast (or two, on good days) to hand more often than not, so that's a useful comparison. However, if I'm handling it (even for purposes of dough comparison), I do not generally find any locally available penises are unerect. So, thanks for the gender parity, but... um... how to phrase this? Breasts are more useful.
